

i recently got a bill from at&t for 500 plus dollars for int'l charges while online.when i called to complain i was told "too bad" basically.the "person" also said that a window can and has been open behind what you are working on charging you the whole time you are on that site.sounds like fraud.he said not in COMOROS ISLANDS apparently.this is unacceptable.people should be warned when they are about to enter a website that's half way around the world!
i hope my money helps a few kids out over there- wishfull thinking.